

2009 TU VIP Winner
Tulsa vs. Boise State
October 14, 2009

Shawna McCalip was looking to watch a competitive match up when she registered online for the 2009 VIP Fan Experience Sweepstakes. The Oklahoma City resident is a native of Montreal, Canada but a big fan of American college football.

As the winner of the Sweepstakes, Shawna and her family had the opportunity to see Tulsa University give the Boise State Broncos a run for their money during the October 14th game at H.A. Chapman Stadium in Tulsa. The VIP package was courtesy of the Oklahoma College Savings Plan. Shawna was joined by her seven year old son, Daniel, her husband, Cale, and their cousin, Tim Gillis, who grew up watching the Golden Hurricane.

As part of their VIP experience, the McCalips and Gillis were given a tour of the Reynolds Center before the game and then spent some time on the field watching the teams warm up before being shown to their seats in the Club-Level section of the stadium.

“This was Daniel’s first football game and he really enjoyed it,” said Shawna. “But I’m not sure if he’s enjoying it anymore than my husband and Tim who are big TU fans!”

McCalip has an OCSP account for Daniel and just opened one for her daughter, Chloe, who is three months old.

“My parents paid for my college education and so I think it’s important for me to pass along that tradition.”

McCalip also received a football autographed by TU Coach Todd Graham as part of the sweepstakes package. But, she says the best part was getting to watch a great game and see her son catch the excitement surrounding college football.

Tulsa used the rainy weather to jump ahead of 5th-ranked Boise State in the first few minutes of the game. The score bounced back and forth between the two teams until the very end when the Hurricane lost its bid to upset Boise State. The final score was 28-21.

Seven-year-old Daniel McCalip seemed undeterred by the loss and summed up the whole VIP Fan Experience in three words.

“This is awesome!”

2009 OSU VIP Winner
OSU vs. Missouri
October 17, 2009

Boone Pickens stadium was near capacity as the Oklahoma State Cowboys prepared to take on the Missouri Tigers. Thousands of OSU fans spent the day on the “walk around” - an OSU tradition of a day and evening set aside for alumni and students to walk around the fraternity and sorority houses near campus to view the enormous and elaborate house decorations created for OSU's Homecoming.

Despite the crowded streets and stadium, Tulsa Brett Gwartney and his friends and family enjoyed watching the game from Club Level seats, courtesy of the Oklahoma College Savings Plan (OCSP).

As the second winner of the OCSP's VIP Fan Experience Sweepstakes for 2009, Gwartney, his dad, Michael, and two friends, Hayden Snyder and Andy Roberts, also got a behind-the-scenes peak at OSU's football and basketball facilities. The group also spent some time on the field before the game.

"I appreciate everything," said Gwartney. "We had a really good time. The box seats were awesome!"

In addition to the tickets and sideline passes, Gwartney also won an OSU sideline polo shirt, game programs and a football autographed by Cowboys Head Coach Mike Gundy.

No purchase was necessary to win the tickets. Gwartney found out about the VIP Fan Experience Sweepstakes offer from his dad.

"He forwarded an email to me and told me to register online to see if I would win," said Gwartney, who is in his third year of law school at Tulsa University.

Gwartney says he hasn't thought about saving for college for his children as he doesn't have any yet. But he is familiar with the costs associated with getting a degree not to mention an advanced degree and the importance of saving for college early.

"I think it's a good idea for parents to start saving early for their child's college education. Not only does it benefit the parents on the costs in the long run, but it can provide encouragement for the child."

Gwartney says in addition to the box seats, he was also happy with the outcome of the OSU game – the Cowboys beat the Missouri 33 to 17.

2009 OU VIP Winner OU vs. Kansas October 31, 2009

It was a picture perfect fall Saturday at one of college football's premier venues complete with 70 degree weather, college marching bands, and a homecoming parade. For Bre Cynova of Oklahoma City, it was a college football game day she'll never forget. More than 84,000 fans were in attendance to watch the OU Sooners take on the Kansas

State Wildcats for homecoming at Gaylord Memorial Stadium on the campus of the University of Oklahoma.

Right in the middle of all of the excitement and fanfare was Oklahoma City resident Bre and her family, watching pregame ceremonies and the opening kickoff from the sidelines and the rest of the game from amazing seats, courtesy of the Oklahoma College Savings Plan (OCSP).

As the third winner of the OCSP's VIP Fan Experience Sweepstakes for 2009, Bre, her husband, Kevin, her mother-in-law, Mary, and Bre and Kevin's six year old daughter, Cassandra also had the opportunity to tour Owen Field before the game and eat lunch at the exclusive Sooner Club Tailgate party.

"This was such a great experience," said Cynova. "We had a really good time. I loved seeing my daughter on the sideline before the game. It was her first OU football game and I'm so happy she got to experience the atmosphere right there on the field."

In addition to the tickets and sideline passes, Bre also won an OU pullover, game programs and a football autographed by Sooner Head Coach Bob Stoops.

No purchase was necessary to win the tickets. As an Oklahoma College Savings Plan account holder, Bre found out about the VIP Fan Experience Sweepstakes offer through an email from the OCSP.

Bre opened an Oklahoma College Savings Plan account for her daughter Cassandra six years ago with the plan to save enough money for her daughter to attend OU.

"My father graduated from OU, I was able to graduate from OU, and we are hopeful that Cassandra will have the opportunity to be the third generation of our family to graduate from OU," said Cynova. "You know what they say – Sooner born and Sooner bred."

"We're very happy with the Oklahoma College Savings Plan for giving us a nice and convenient way of saving for our daughter's college education. I think talking about it with Cassandra helps to keep her thinking about college and encourages her to work hard in school."

Bre says in addition to the great seats, the food, and the sideline passes, she was also happy with the outcome of the game – the Sooners beat the Wildcats 42 to 30.
